Central School District's $300,000 Bond Proposal Before Voters May 24

Schools Set Graduation Day Schedule

Graduation dates have been set by both Cucamonga school districts.

Cucamonga School will have its ceremonies Tuesday, June 14, while Central School District holds its exercises the following evening, Wednesday, June 15.

Testing schedules and other events leading up to graduation were topics for discussion Wednesday when administrators met at Mt. Baldy.

School officials also considered the 1960-61 calendar, pre-school meetings, in-service training, map adoption, instrumental music program and the art workshop which is scheduled Thursday afternoon at Central School.

Hand Tools Taken From Gas Station

An estimated $300 worth of hand tools were taken from a service station at 8291 Foothill Blvd. last week by a burglar who removed the articles through a steel gate surrounding the lubrication building.

Owner, who reported the loss to sheriff's deputies, was Samuel Wesley Roberts.

DISCUSSING THE DECORATIONS and decor to be used at the coming fashion-luncheon to be held at the South Hills Country Club at West Covina, May 21, at 12:30 p.m. are left to right, Ticket Co-chairman Mmes. Stephen De Ambrogio, Cucamonga and Mrs. Mary Nimmergut, Alta Loma. Mrs. Richard Kessler, Ontario is decorations chairman. Meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Nimmergut, co-chairman of the event. This is a yearly event for the Catholic Daughters, Court Our Lady of Fatima and funds are earmarked for the Bishop's Burse, an educational fund for aspirants to the seminary. Tickets may be secured from any of the committee members or chairmen. Early Reservations are advised.

Five School Sites Seen For Growth

Approval to sell $300,000 in local bonds as needed and to accept an addtional $3,000,000 in state aid for long range site acquisition and development of new schools to meet expected population growth will be asked of Central School District voters in the Cucamonga area at an election May 24.

Board members and Superintendent of Schools Marion Adkison begin a series of meetings with PTA, civic and service groups today to explain the proposals.

The election call follows months of study and preparation of an extensive saturation survey, completed with the assistance of the County Planning Commission, architects, the State Department of Finance, State Department of Schoolhouse Planning and research offices of public utilities companies.

See 5,000 Pupils

They indicate, according to Adkison, a need to accommodate 5,000 students inthedsidate 5,000 students in the district within roughly five new sites.

The local $300,000 bonding proposal and the measure which would approve acceptance of state aid will appear as separate items on the ballot. Both must pass by at least two-thirds maiorities to permit the district to proceed on its projected program of site acquisition.

"We feel we'll save money for taxpayers by acquiring sites now," the superintendent stated. "Land is likely to cost twice as much in four or five years."

He emphasized, however, that any funds voted by the district could not be spent until dictated by growth and approved by the state.

Helps Keep Level

The schools administrator pointed out that with such planning the district would be able to maintain a high level of education throughout its growth period and continue to attract a high caliber of teachers.

"We feel teachers like to be in a district where good planning is evident," he stated. "Both teachers and pupils benefit when overcrowded conditions do not exist."

The $300,000 local bond approval is needed to bring the district bonding capacity up to the level the state requires and is a necessary first step to acquisition of the $3 million in state aid, according to the proponents.

Adkison is meeting today with the Valle Vista PTA and this evening with the Chamber of Commerce. Other meetings are scheduled with the Central School PTA board May 9 and with service clubs next Monday evening.

An open public meeting to explain the proposals is scheduled later this month on a date which will be announced.

Central School Starts Career Days Program

Central School District in Cucamonga, which pioneered summer school at the elementary level several years ago, launched another new program Tuesday with the first of two Career Days for eighth grade students, according to Marion Adkison, superintendent.

Prepared by Mrs. Dorothy Stamps, student counselor at Central School, the vocational guidance sessions feature discussions with professional people in eight specified fields.

Mrs. E. K. Smith, director of educational services at Kaiser Steel, spoke Tuesday on industry while Capt. Robert Graefe of the San Bernardino Sheriff's Department discussed police science.

Continues Next Week

Next Tuesday the 85 eighth graders will be divided into boy and girl groups.

Schedule for the girls includes secretarial work, Mrs. Smith; airline career, Mrs. Lou Herberts, former hostess; and medicine, John Walser, assistant administrator for San Antonio Community Hospital.

Boys will hear about agriculture from the dean of student personnel at Calif. Polytechnic, Mr. Ashenbrumer; medicine, John Walser; and apprentice shop, James Stamm training coordinator for Kaiser Steel.

Among First

While Career Days have been a regular part of high school vocational guidance training, this is believed to be one of the first in the nation to be held exclusively for eighth graders.

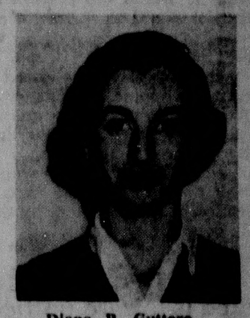

Adkison said the program is designed to better acquaint younger children with job possibilities before they begin choosing subjects for high school training.

"It is not expected the students will make decisions about careers, but we hope they will become aware of some of the many interesting fields that can be pursued," he said.

A number of college guidance departments are watching the Central School project with interest.

Cucamonga Coed Named For Award At Chaffey College

Diana P. Guttero, 8151 Ninth St., Cucamonga has been named recipient of a $100 award in the field of secretarial and clerical studies by the Bank of America, it's announced by Dr. Daniel B. Milliken, president of Chaffey College.

Miss Guttero and Jerry L. Nugent of Fontana, also from Chaffey, will receive the honors Friday night during a banque at the Beverly Hilton Hotel.

Approximately 60 colleges throughout the state participate with two winners being chosen from each school. The bank launched the program to encourage young people to better prepare for business careers.

College Education For All Obiective Of Master Plan

A college education within the financial reach of every California youth who is able to maintain satisfactory standards of scholarship is the ultimate objective of the recently passed Master Plan for Higher Education according to Chaffey College Director Rex W. Wignall.

"In its fullest implications, this new bill represents perhaps the most advanced and enlightened commitment to education ever undertaken by so populous a state," said Wignall. "What it means is that the people of California recognize education to be of such supreme importance, not only to the individual but to the entire community, that students may now proceed from the freshman year at a junior college on up through the doctoral degree with costs to students limited to books, living expenses and minor fees."

Load On JC's

Junior colleges will educate a heavy maiority of the total number of first and second year students under the plan, Wignall pointed out. Present plans call for substantially raised entrance requirements on the part of both the university and state colleges with the result that a smaller per cent of graduating students will be admitted directly from high school.

"There are two reasons for this policy", Wignall said, "the record indicates that junior college transfers do as well in the upper-division work as those who enroll directly from high school in a four year institution; and the cost of education to the taxpayers is substantially less at a junior college."

Under the terms of the proposal, junior colleges will offer: 1. standard collegiate courses for transfer to 4 year institutions; 2. vocational and technical fields leading to employment, 3. general or liberal arts courses.

"If they are to fulfill the mission assigned to them by the legislature and accommodate greatly increased enrollment," Wignall pointed out, "junior colleges must have increased state financial assistance and, indeed, such proposals are now under study by legislative committees."

Must Broaden Scope

"Apart from the financial requirements", said Wignall, "we shall have to broaden out intellectual horizons so as to be capable of the flexibility and diversification which this plan calls for without lowering academic standards."

"The junior college idea, launched tentatively and somewhat experimentally over fifty years ago under the lesdership of Stanford University has proven uniquely adaptable to the changing needs for college education and technical training within California communities. There is every reason to believe that such community colleges will play an even more important role in the years immediately ahead," said Wignall.

JIM ZIMMERMAN of Upland won second place in men's interpretation of poetry and prose as Chaffey College tied for second in the Eastern Conference speech contest held recently at San Bernardino. He looks over the trophy with Dorlinda Yorke, foreign student from the British Honduras

Trend Toward Splitting

A vote of thanks is owed to W. Wren Woodward, a high school board member, for his great effort in compiling facts about the high school and elementary school districts of our areas.

His report was presented first in THE NEWS in great detail two weeks ago.

It is a study of the possible course unification of the schools might take.

He presented three tentative ways to "unify," or bring both high school and elementary districts under one board.

The report showed that ONE UNIFIED DISTRICT of all nine elementary districts within the present high school district would comprise 198 square miles, with a combined assessed valuation of $134,957,000.

The report also showed unification into two major districts—with Ontario and Mountain View in one section and (generally speaking) everything north of the freeway in the other.

The third possibility would split the area north of the freeway into two groups, if not now, then in the future as the community grows.

The trend in this general area is toward unification of high school and elementary school district.

The trend is toward two major districts now; with the third being formed in years to come as the growth warrants it.

It would be folly, indeed, to try to weld all these districts into one big one now—and within a few years then split them up because of great growth.

The basic "splitting lines" should be drawn now so long-range planning may be accomplished in an orderly pattern.

It has ben emphasized that neither Mr. Woodward nor any member of the High school board or staff has taken sides on the report.

This report was a "factual" study only at this time.

A combined meeting of all districts is slated for May.

We urge all board members to get a copy of THE NEWS for April 21, and read the verbatim reprint of part of the report, as well as study the maps and district statistics.

This will make for a better meeting later this month.

--In The Bag--

By Ken Sachs

Those of you who were aboard on the maiden venture of this column last week quite likely gained the impression that our entire family is delighted to be in Southern California. All, that is, with the possible exception of Irving. He's reserving judgement.

My remarks last week were strictly for the birds in his opinion. For in those introductions there was no single mention of him. And that hurts. Because ever since he uttered his first sounds, Irving has sort of regarded himself as the king pin. He appeared on television, had his picture in the paper, was better known in his home of the rest of us. Publicity sort of went to his head.

Then he came to Upland, or to be absolutely correct, to Cucamonga. A dynasty seemed to crash all around him. Irving, by the way, is a dog. A male dog. Not a pedigree, but an honest to goodness male dog, nevertheless. Only these crazy mutts he figured he'd strike up an acquaintance with couldn't get that through their heads. Alas, they treated him like a female. Now that's enough to break down anyone's ego.

He moped for days, looked puzzled when we called him Irving. Surely these Southern California hounds must be crazy. Then, summoning all of his St. Bernard and Australian Shepard pure-blooded courage, he passed the word. Gradually things returned to normal and all appeared well with the world. Until last week's column. For the first time since those sleeping-in-bed, drying- the-floor puppy days his puppet (he prefers calling me that, rather than master) ignored him in print. It's been a ruff week. So, if from time to time we toss in a remark or two about Irving, you'll know it's simply to keep peace in the family. Are you happy now, you dumb mutt?

I had an initial opportunity last Friday to look over site plans for the new Upland Industrial Park. It appears to be a venture of which any community can be justly proud. For this will not be a collection of dingy shacks and buildings so often associated in the past with industry. Bright, modern brick, stone and glass fronts will give the passing motorist more of a shopping center or residential look. And, barring any hitches, the first two or three units should be completed within 90 days.

Funny thing, a couple of weeks ago I'd never even heard of benzpyrene. Then all of a sudden, in one day, three different associations send me mountains of information on a subect I can't even pronounce, much less spell.

Benzpyrene, as you've undoubtedly read, is the suspected villain in smog. So why should they be concerned with informing me? I breath clean Upland air.

Sandra Lee Withrow of Upland recently experienced a four-day stay behind the Iron Curtain as part of a student delegation from the University of Redlands. She is a senior majoring in biology. The group moved on to Italy, returns to Redlands in June.

THOUGHTS WHILE SLAVING: Among the more enjoyable moments of our first three weeks in Upland — a first class guided tour of the Upland High School campus conducted by Mrs. Polly Picard. Many thanks. Already I've learned how much to appreciate you and your fine school.....Read this somewhere the other day: "I don't care if your name is Sugarfoot, keep your toe out of my coffee." .....One or two lumps?

Alexander Hosts Anchor-ettes, Gets Twirling Lessons

When a motorcade to Hollywood, including 75 Anchorettes and parents, predominantly of Upland, were guests on the Ben Alexander ABC-T.V. show "About Faces" Monday last, we are sorry to say the "Best of Ben" went untaped.

According to the producer, during one portion of the show when Ben was introducing Olympic stars, the pictures were out of sequence. After the show was completed and much to the delight of Karen Staples' crack marching and baton twirling corps, the participating audience were asked to remain in their seats for a re-take on part of the tape.

With all eyes up and a movie like atmosphere the technician called out, "Second Take, Ready to Roll! When Ben stepped up gingerly and said "Glad to see you boys have the "tape" rolling, but since there are no "cue cards" for me to read, I think I'll say a few words about "Tom Dooley"!

At that point the applause and laughter meter could very well have lit up to "Tilt". Delaying for a third "take," Ben then ask to be shown the fundamentals of "Baton Twirling" at which point Karen Staples, director of the Corps in full dress captain's uniform proceeded to give Mr. Alexander or Frank Smith of Dragnet) his first lesson. Can you imagine what Sgt. Friday would have done had he walked in and caught one of his best men twirling a Baton Dum - De - Dum - Dum!

Plans include a cocktail party Saturday from 6 to 7:30 followed by dinner around the pool and dancing. Sunday those who wish may attend church services before a brunch.

Co-chairmen are Frank Lyons and Mrs. Winifred O'Brien Buckley. Notices are going out this week and reservations should be made soon with Leonard Mather, 315 E. Bonnie Brae Court, Ontario.

The committee would appreciate it if all members of the class would pass on information on others whose addresses are not on file.

Hansen Enjoys Games Chances

Arriving at the airport, we promptly got into a brisk conversation with the likes of Bill Cleary. He explained his view on the Russian oxygen stunt and told us about his home town of Boston where he works as an insurance salesman. He also showed us the gold medal the team won and it had the Latin terms on it that are also inscribed on the Tower of Nations.

"Citius (quicker). Altius higher) and Fortius strongly or bravely)." It is about a ½ an inch thick about two inches in diameter. It weighs quite a bit and one glows with a special awe when holding the choicest reward for amateur athletic supremacy.

The Clearys departed with their friends Kirrane and Dick Rodenhiser and the team trainer, Benny. We sat there in that spacious and modern-air terminal in Reno. I fell asleep and had to be wakened by the Hopkins." Our plane sailed into the black and when I came "to" we were spending 15 minutes in Sacramento. Three nickels worth of minutes passed and away we soared to San Francisco for a three-hour stay in that air station.

We spent that three hours in San Francisco sleeping and it was about 3:45 a.m. when we boarded the United Air Lines flying machine for our final destination from the Games—good old L. A. The stewardess told me it was raining in the City of the Angels and that I should get out my overcoat. I didn't have one and with that, we sailed out over the Bay City lights and off for home.

Welcomed Home

In a drizzle and fog, we bounced down (so did my stomach) to the runway of Inglewood Airport. My parents and a welcoming committee of teen-agers greeted me very graciously at 5:30 a.m. I got my luggage and handed out what gifts I had available and prepared for the final leg of my trip—home.

Saying thanks and final goodbyes to the Hopkins; we present my story of the VIII Olympic Winter Games became an inspiring mist in my clouded mind. I had heard much, seen more, and experienced the greatest epic of sports ever staged in any stadium, on any court, or on any rink....

Thanks especially to the Los Angeles Examiner and the Thomson Clothing Company for presenting me with the "chance of a lifetime." I will relive in memory the VIII Winter Olympics all the days of my life. And may I extend my thanks to the Upland News for allowing me to present my story of the VIII Olympic Winter Games to the people of our community. I sincerely hope I brought to you a clear picture of just what happened last February....)

New Books For Boys, Girls

NEW BOOKS FOR BOYS AND GIRLS AT UPLAND PUBLIC LIBRARY

Both authors and publishers are taking the matter of producing good books for boys and girls very seriously. The writing of many good story books on a primary level has led to the improvement of readers. Ginn and Company has published the Ginn Enrichment Series which has been designed to give boys and girls from 9 to 12 a reading experience which will help them to become willing readers.

Fourth grade seems a bit late to start such encouragement and, fortunately, there are hundreds of books which will catch the interest of second and third and even first grade students. However, the Ginn books are good, fast moving stories by top-grade authors and they will be read for their own worth.

These Enrichment series books have recently been added to the books in the library: TOMORROW WILL BE BRIGHT by Mabel Leigh Hunt, SEECATCH by Rutherford Montgomery, ADVENTURE I THE SIERRAS by Henry B. Fea, and A DOG NAMED PENNY by Clyde Robert Bulla.

Clementina's parents were rich. They bought everything that Clementina wanted. Clementina wanted CANDY Rumer Godden has written FLOSS, a doll that she saw in a booth at a carnival, another of her good doll stories about what happened when Clementina could not buy the doll from Jack who had the cocoanut-shy booth in the carnival. Third graders can read it.

SPINNING WINGS by Lucy Gallup is the story of what happened to a family of terns one summer during nesting time. Some friendly children brought a degree of tragedy to the family of gulls. While the book can be read by third graders, it is of interest to all ages.

Jack and his father were in the bank. "Mr. Lee is the teller at this window," the father told Jack.

"What does he tell people? Jack asked.

That was a perfectly natural question and AT THE BANK Elinor Rees and the reader follow Jack and his father through the routine processes at the bank and even go into the vault. This book will be popular with teachers of third grade classes. Children on that level can read it.

Fourth grade readers will like PETS AT THE WHITE HOUSE by Carl Carmer, THE LEMONADE TRICK by Scott Corbett, THE SEAL THAT COULDN'T SWIM by Alexis Ladas, and PREHISTORIC ZOO by Carroll Lane Fenton and Mildred Adams Fenton. The last book is about dinosaurs and other prehistoric beasts.

A member of The Library Club of America has contributed this review to the column.

A SWARM IN MAY
by William Mayne

When John Owen turns down the chance to become Beekeeper in his choir school in England, everyone thinks he is simply "wet." When Owen discovers the importance of the Beekeeper and also a hidden passage leading to some old hives which had been lost for centuries, he wishes he had not been so hasty.

A scent of mystery is thrown in. For instance, what is the sweet-smelling globe that is so attractive to the bees What door will a key that he found open?

Altogether, A SWARM IN MAY is a highly intriguing book that will fascinate both boys and girls, who are interested in schoolboys and school life in England.

Upland Hosts Garden Club

Upland members were hostesses to the Inter-County Garden Club meeting Monday, May 2, at the Upland Woman's Club. Almost 100 members and guests from four counties attended the meeting which began at 10 a.m. with a business session and ended in the late afternoon with a garden tour.

The speaker for the event was Mrs. Paul W. Behrends of Encinitas who spoke on "Bromeliads". Mrs. Behrends is an enthusiastic gardener who has made shade plants her hobby, and has authored a book on Begonias to be published in a few months.

Luncheon was served on tables decorated with baskets of deep pink and red roses. In keeping with the theme of May Baskets, the decor of the clubhouse consisted of a profusion of assorted baskets filled with colorful spring flowers and plants.

Following the luncheon the group was taken on a tour the Reitkerk orchid gardens on E. 21st and Highland Gardens where Amaryllis are in bloom.

Chairman of the Day was Mrs. B. M. Pace, Assisting Mrs. Pace with table decorations and May baskets were Mmmes. Walter Hewitt and Isabelle Wisely. Corsages were made by Mmes. Jessie Pugsley of Pomona, Hubert Mills of La Verne, and Elwin Barksdale of Upland. Reservations were handled by Mmes. James Beggs, Harold Rowe and Barksdale.

Phyllis Smith Head Of Girls League
